INTRODUCTION

IN THE year 1928 Baron A. von Stael-Holstein brought from Peiping to Cambridge and presented to the Harvard College Library materials for the study of four Lamaistic Pantheons. Only one of these Pantheons has ever been fully described and published in the West.

The first is a xylograph copy of a Pantheon of three hundred figures composed by the Chang Chia (Tibetan Lcan-skya) Hutuktu Lalitavajra in the time of the emperor Ch'ien-lung (1736-96 A.D.). The Tibetan names are given underneath, and each figure is accompanied by a dhāraṇī. This Pantheon has been fully described by Eugen Pander in "Das Pantheon des Tschangtscha Hutuktu" (edited by Albert Grünwedel in Veröffentlichungen aus dem kgl. Museum für Volkerkunde in Berlin, I, 2/3, 1890) and in "Das lamaistische Pantheon" in Zeitschrift für Ethnologie, 1889, and was edited by Sergei Fedorovich Oldenburg at St. Petersburg in 1903 in the fifth volume of the Bibliotheca Buddhica. It has been the chief source used by western scholars in describing Lamaistic iconography. The original wood blocks are still preserved, and prints are still procurable in Peiping.

The second is a complete set of photographs from a copy of the so-called Five Hundred Gods of Narthang. This is unedited, but Grünwedel, in his descriptions of Lamaistic iconography, has made considerable use of a copy which is in Berlin. The main part of this work, in my copy, is named Rin-hbyun (Ratnasambhava) and consists of 143 numbered folios, of which the last contains the colophon. It is preceded by a folio labelled gcig-gon, which I have numbered 0, containing the figures of rGyal-ṅhab-rje, rJe-rin-po-che, and mKhas-grub-rje. There are two folios numbered 70, the second of which I have numbered 070. There is also a duplicate of folio 117 placed after 110; this I have numbered 0110. This is followed by sNar-than, which consists of thirteen folios, the last of which contains the colophon. This is referred to as S. Then comes the rDor-phren (or hphren) (Vajramālā), which consists of twenty folios — the last three containing the colophon. This is referred to as R. Each of the 174 illustrated folios contains three pictures (which I have labelled a, b, and c) and three dhāraṇīs. The names of the figures are given underneath in Tibetan. Many of the pictures contain two or more figures, and in some cases I have had difficulty in dividing the Tibetan, in knowing whether it contains one name or two. Several names which were indistinct or blurred in the photographic reproduction were cleared up by reference to an original in the possession of the late Berthold Laufer of the Field Museum in Chicago — an original which he kindly put at my disposal.

The third is a complete set of photographs of a unique manuscript which is entitled Chu Fo P'u-sa Shêng Hsiang T'san (諸佛菩薩聖像贊) and is ascribed to an unnamed Chang Chia Hutuktu. Staël-Holstein believes that this Pantheon is to be ascribed to the same Lalitavajra who composed the Pantheon of three hundred figures mentioned above. This manuscript now belongs to the National Library of Peiping. When the photographs were made the volume was still owned by a Chinese bookseller of Peiping. It contains 360 figures accompanied by 360 eulogies in Chinese. The figures are classed into twenty-three divisions and the figures in each division are numbered.

I (1-10)	般若祖師	XIII (158-177)	觀世音菩薩化像
II (11-18)	秘密祖師	XIV (178-193)	毘盧佛壇場內菩薩
III (19-28)	菩提道祖師	XV (194-200)	諸樣菩薩
IV (29-62)	大秘密佛	XVI (201-205)	保護佛母
V (63-76)	諸樣秘密佛	XVII (206-227)	救度佛母
VI (77-81)	五方佛	XVIII (228-271)	諸樣佛母
VII (82-116)	三十五佛	XIX (272-289)	十八羅漢
VIII (117-126)	十方佛	XX (290-296)	諸樣羅漢
IX (127-132)	六勇佛	XXI (297-317)	勇保護法
X (133-139)	藥師佛	XXII (318-322)	財寶天王
XI (140-144)	諸樣佛	XXIII (323-360)	諸樣護法
XII (145-157)	文殊化像菩薩

The Tibetan and Chinese names of the divinities are given below and above; the Mongolian and Manchu names are given at the two sides.

The book seems to have been the original from which was made a certain type of Lamaistic plaque which is found in large numbers in Peiping and in western museums, and which was manufactured during the reign of Ch'ien-lung. Staël-Holstein has verified this fact by a comparison of a large number of such plaques with the figures in the book. He has also found in Peiping curio shops over a hundred of the bronze moulds which were used in making the plaques. This Pantheon was not made by adding sixty figures to the Pantheon of Three Hundred referred to above. Many of the figures among the three hundred are omitted and many new ones are added.

For a description and discussion of this manuscript see Staël-Holstein, "Remarks on the Chu Fo P'u Sa Shêng Hsiang Tsan," in the Bulletin of the Metropolitan Library, Vol I (1928).

The fourth consists of a complete set of photographs of a unique Lamaistic Pantheon found in the Pao-hsiang Lou (寶相樓), a Lama temple situated in the garden of the Tz'ü-ning (慈寧) palace in the Forbidden City at Peiping. In July 1926 Stael-Holstein received permission from Mr. Chuang, President of the Palace Committee, to visit a number of Lama temples situated in the Forbidden City — temples which for many years seem to have been entirely neglected. In the upper storey of one of these temples, the Pao-hsiang Lou, he found a collection of bronze statuettes constituting a Lamaistic Pantheon which had consisted originally of 787 figures. But it had been visited by thieves, for some of the cabinets had been broken open and thirty-one of the statuettes had been removed. The fact that the pedestals of the images bore contemporary inscriptions (of the reign of Ch'ien-lung) giving the Chinese names of the divinities and personages represented constitutes a unique feature of the Pantheon and greatly enhances its value. Realizing the importance for Lamaistic iconography of this large collection of inscribed images, Stael-Holstein set about immediately to have the statuettes photographed. Money was furnished by Mrs. Mason Bross of Chicago, and the photographs were taken, or Chinese assistants supervised, by the late Mr. Benjamin March.

The work was done during December 1926 and January and February 1927. All the statuettes of the Pantheon in the upper storey of the temple had been photographed, and Stael-Holstein was just about to transfer operations to the ground-floor to make a complete record of the images there before proceeding to the other temples in the same garden when an official letter from the Palace authorities informed him that his photographers would not be allowed to continue their work.

The upper storey of the temple consists of seven chapels. The central chapel contains only a life-sized image of the great Tibetan reformer bCon-kha-pa. There are six side chapels, three on each side of the central chapel. Of these, number one is the northernmost and number six the southernmost. Each side chapel contains a central altar and two cabinets, one on each side of the altar. On each altar there are nine bronze images, and in each cabinet (except those which have been broken into by thieves) there are sixty-one bronze images. The boxes in the cabinets are arranged in five rows — each row containing from eleven to thirteen boxes. Originally, therefore, there must have been 787 statuettes (including the large statue of bCon-kha-pa). Thirty-one images had been stolen, but ten empty inscribed pedestals remained. So there are 756 images and 766 inscriptions. On the walls of the side chapels are inscriptions in Chinese, Tibetan, Mongolian, and Manchu, stating the parts of the Buddhist scriptures to which the divinities of each chapel belong and giving the names of some of the most important divinities in each chapel. Five of the chapels are devoted to Tantric divinities. Only one chapel, the first, is devoted to deities from other parts of the canon.

The following notes concerning the Pao-hsiang Lou have been given to me by Mr. James R. Ware of the Harvard-Yenching Institute.

The Pao-hsiang Lou 寶相樓 stands east of a building known as the Hsien-jo Kuan 咸若館, which is in the flower-garden of the Tz'ü-ning 慈寧 palace of the Forbidden City in Peiping. The construction of this palace was completed July 20, 1653.<sup>1</sup>

Some day there will probably be published from among the archives of the Ch'ing dynasty precise data concerning these statues. From the information now available it is possible to indicate only the following facts. A guide-book (without date) to the Forbidden City which has been prepared under the Chinese Republic, the Ku Kung Tu Shuo, "The Old Palaces Illustrated and Explained," 故宮圖說, pamphlet number two, page six, describes the location of the buildings as given above and tells us that the Pao-hsiang Lou contains a collection of Tibetan Buddhas, and that the Chi-yun Lou 吉雲樓 which stands to the west of the Hsien-jo Kuan is filled from top to bottom with Tibetan Buddhas.

On examining ch. 18 of the Kuo Ch'ao Kung Shih we learn why so many Buddhas are found here. This palace was inhabited by Ch'ien-lung's mother, who seems to have been very religious.<sup>2</sup> Her sixtieth birthday, in 1751, was an occasion for great rejoicing and presents were showered upon her by her son. Among the gifts was one set of nine Buddhas, and a complete set of Amitāyur Buddhas.<sup>3</sup> We are not told the number of the Buddhas in this last set. Ten years later, on her seventieth birthday, she was presented with more Buddhas: nine sets of Amitāyur Buddhas totaling 900 statues, nine sets of the same totaling 9000 statues, nine Buddhas, nine Amitāyur Buddhas, nine Buddhas,

nine Amitāyur Buddhas, nine Bodhisattvas, nine fo-mu, eighteen lo-han, and nine Buddhas.<sup>1</sup>

This is a summary of all the information that, to my knowledge, has been published. It is impossible to identify any of the statues just mentioned as our collection. Unfortunately, the Kuo Ch'ao Kung Shih Hsu Pien does not list the presents which Ch'ien-lung must have given his mother in 1771 on her eightieth birthday. Our set may have been made at that time.

The present publication gives a complete reproduction of the 360 figures of the Chu Fo P'u-sa Shêng Hsiang Tsan and of the 766 preserved images or inscribed pedestals (omitting the large central image of bÇon-kha-pa) of the Pao-hsiang Lou Pantheon.

The Chinese index gives the Chinese names of the figures in these two Pantheons. Some of the names of the Pao-hsiang Lou Pantheon are difficult to read on the photographs and still more difficult on the collotype plates. To facilitate reference the entries in the Chinese index have been numbered, and a number referring to the entry number of the index has been placed under each figure on the plates. The transliteration is that of Wade-Giles.

The Tibetan index, in addition to the Tibetan names of the Chu Fo P'u-sa Shêng Hsiang Tsan, includes the names of the figures in the Five Hundred Gods of Narthang (which is unedited) and in the Pantheon of Three Hundred, edited by Oldenburg in Bibliotheca Buddhica, Vol. V. The Tibetan transliteration follows that adopted by A. von Stael-Holstein in Bibliotheca Buddhica, XV, xi, except that I have used ś for ṣ.

The Sanskrit index gives a Sanskrit reconstruction of the names of all the figures in these four Pantheons in so far as I have been able to make them out on the basis of Chinese and Tibetan.

A refers to the Pao-hsiang Lou Pantheon. The six side chapels (from north to south) are numbered 1 to 6. The statuettes on the central altar are referred to as M1-9. The boxes in the cabinets to the left (north) and right (south) of the central altar are numbered A1-61 and B1-61.

B refers to the Chu Fo P'u-sa Shêng Hsiang Tsan.

C refers to the Five Hundred Gods of Narthang.

D refers to the Pantheon of Three Hundred edited by Oldenburg.

The Sanskrit names given to the figures of the Chu Fo P'u-sa Shêng Hsiang T'an are based on the Tibetan. The Chinese names, when they differ markedly from the Tibetan, have occasionally been referred to in the index.

I have queried many of my reconstructions. The names with question marks are given merely as plausible suggestions. A few of the names given without query may turn out to be incorrect. Some of the names which are given in Chinese transcription without an attempt at reconstruction could be turned into some sort of Sanskrit, but the Sanskrit forms would be so hypothetical that I have preferred to leave the Chinese names as they are. My own knowledge of Chinese is almost negligible. Those who have a good knowledge of Chinese and Japanese and who have access to the proper Tantric ritualistic texts will doubtless be able to complete the reconstructions and to emend the faulty ones.

The exact Sanskrit forms of the names of many of the Tārās are doubtful. The Chinese form of Akṣobhya and Acala is the same; I am not sure that I have always been right in deciding which name to use. The Chinese Wên-shu 文殊 may apply both to Mañjuśrī and Mañju-ghoṣa. I have used both Saṁvara and Śaṁvara, the former for the Tibetan sdom-pa, the latter for the Tibetan bde-mchogs and the Chinese shang-lo 上樂.

GENERAL REMARKS

Weller's Tausend Buddhanamen des Bhadrakalpa is especially helpful for the Buddhas of Chapel 1.

1A5-8, 1A14-17, 1A18-21, 1A26-29, and 1B6-9 occur in Weller's book in the same grouping. This fact has helped in the reconstruction of the Sanskrit of several doubtful names.

B82-116 and A1A13, 22-25, 30-34, 37-61, the Thirty-five Buddhas of Confession, correspond almost exactly to the list given in a formula of confession preserved from the Upālipariṣṭchā Sūtra by the Śikṣāsamuccaya, p. 169. According to Nanjio, A Catalogue of the Chinese Translation of the Buddhist Tripiṭaka, no. 1109, the Upālipariṣṭchā was translated into Chinese by Guṇavarman in 431 A.D.

The chief differences are the following:

1. Vajragarbhapramardīn (B83) and Vajrābhedyā (A1A33 and Chinese of B83) take the place of Vajrapramardīn.
2. Ratnāgni (B88 and A1A47) takes the place of Ratnaśrī.

3. Padmajyotirvikrīḍitābhijña (B106 and A1A38) takes the place of Nirmala and is placed before Brahmajyotirvikrīḍitābhijña.
4. Suparikīrtitanāmaśrī (B109 and A1A24) takes the place of Suparikīrtitanāmagheyaśrī.
5. Yuddhajaya (B112 and A1A52) takes the place of Vicitra-saṅkrama
6. The Chinese of B113 and A1A51 have Suvikrāntagāmin and the Tibetan of B113 has Vikrāntagāmsrī for Vikrāntagāmin.
7. The Tibetan of B116 has Śailendrarāja and the Chinese of A1A13 has Sumeruparvatarāja (= Śailendrarāja) for Ratnapadmasupratīṣṭhita-Śailendrarāja. The Chinese of B116 gives the full form.

The Thirty-five Buddhas of Confession (ltun-bśags-kyi-sans-rgyas) are referred to by Wassiljew, Der Buddhismus, pp 170, 186, from the Ratnakūta (presumably the Upāliparipṛcchā Sūtra) and from an Ākāśagarbha Sūtra. An altogether different list is given by E Schlagintweit, Buddhism in Tibet, pp 96, 122 ff., from a Tibetan text entitled sDug-pa thams-cad bśags-par gter-chos. See also T. Oda, Bukkyō Daijiten, 織田得能, 佛教大辭典 p. 631.

An interesting problem is the relation between certain figures in our two Pantheons and the Nepalese Kriyāsaṃgraha, a Balinese text which has been published and discussed by Bosch, and the central portion of the Kongōkai-mandara 金剛界曼荼羅 of the Japanese Shingōn sect.

For the Kriyāsaṃgraha see B. H. Hodgson, Essays on the Languages, Literature, and Religion of Nepal and Tibet, p. 34, and Hara Prasad Shāstri, A Descriptive Catalogue of Sanscrit Manuscripts in the Government Collection under the Care of the Asiatic Society of Bengal, Vol I, "Buddhist Manuscripts," pp. 122-123.

For the Balinese text see F. D. K. Bosch, "Buddhistische Gegevens uit Balische Handschriften" in Mededeelingen der koninklijke Akademie van Wetenschappen te Amsterdam, Afdeeling Letterkunde, Deel 68, Serie B, no. 3 (1929)

For the sixteen vajra-Bodhisattvas see also Sylvain Lévi, Sanskrit Texts from Bali, pp. xxii-xxvi (Gaekwad's Oriental Series, Vol. LXVII).

For the Shingon Mandara see Bunyiu Nanjio, A Short History of the Twelve Japanese Buddhist Sects, pp 92-94; H. Smidt, "Eine populäre Darstellung der Shingon-Lehre" in Ostasiatische Zeitschrift, Vol. VI

(especially pages 184–190); Bosch, op. cit. (especially plate II); S Togano, Mandara no kenkyū 曼荼羅の研究, pp 512–14 Taishō daizōkyō 大正大藏經, Iconographical section, IV, 350

For substantially the same thirty-seven figures in the mandala of Sarvavid-Vairocana, except for differences in the first two groups, see Tucci, Indo-Tibetica, III, pp 32–36, 40–42.

The central portion of the Kongōkai-mandara consists of thirty-seven figures:

I. Five Buddhas

1 Vairocana

2 Aksobhya	4 Amitābha
3. Ratnasambhava	5 Amoghasiddhi

II Four female vajrī-divinities

12. Vajrarāga	20. Vajrahetu
13. Vajrasūdhū	21 Vajrabhūṣa
14. Vajraratna	22. Vajrakarma
15 Vajratejas	23. Vajrarakṣa

31. Puṣpā	33. Dhūpā

c.

34. Ankuṣī	36. Sphotā
35. Pāṣṭī	37. Ghaṇṭā

Numbers 1–5 are B77–81 and numbers 2–5 are A4A11, 51 and A4B41, 50. The Vairocana to the group is probably Vajradhātu Vairocana A4A25.

Numbers 6–9 are B263–266 and A4A22–24, 52.

Numbers 10-25 are B178-193 and A4A9-10, 12, 13, 49, 50 and A4B39-40, 42-43, 44, 49, 51-54

Numbers 26-37 do not occur in B. Numbers 26-29 are A4B45, 55-57 (names ending in fo-mu 佛母). The names occur also in A2B6, A3A48, 50; A3B27 (names ending in fo-mu) and in A2B7-9 (names ending in mu 母). Numbers 30-33 are A2B22-25 (names ending in mu) and A3A30, 40, 53 (names ending in fo-mu). Numbers 34-37, with prefixed vajra, are A2B10-13 (names ending in mu), and without vajra, A3A10, 54, 56 (names ending in fo-mu) — Ghanṭā being omitted.

The Sādhana-mālā (Gaekwad's Oriental Series, Vols XXVI, XLI), pages 157, 312, 324, gives the first two sub-groups in connection with Mañjuśrī (Dharmaśaṅkhasamādhi) and with Prajñāpāramitā, and pages 179-180, 197-198, 228-229 give the second sub-group as Tārās and the third sub-group (either with or without a prefixed vajra) as attendants of Vajratāra. See also Bhattacharyya, Indian Buddhist Iconography, pp. 123-125, Foucher, Étude sur l'iconographie bouddhique de l'Inde, II, p. 69, Hara Prasad Shāstri, op cit., p. 43, in connection with the Sarvadugatipariśodhana. Bhattacharyya, pp. 38-39, gives the second and third sub-groups as attendants of Lokanātha (Avalokiteśvara).

Note also Sādhana-mālā, p. 191, Sphota-tārām nigaḍahastām; and Hara Prasad Shāstri, op cit., p. 123, Vajrasphoṭasya śīṅkhālā for sphoṭa in the sense of "chain."

The sixteen Bodhisattvas (A4B1-5, 14-17, 46-48, 58-61).

Jālinīprabha	Gaganagaṇja
Vajragarbha	Maitreya
Akṣayamatī	Amoghadarśin
Prajñākūṭa	Apāyajaha
Samantabhadra	Jñānaketu
Śokamrghātanamati	Aratābha
Gandhabastin	Candāprabha
Śūrangama	Bhadrāpāla

occur in a group after the figures of the Kongōkai-mandara in the Krīyāsāṅgraha (cf Hara Prasad Shāstri, op. cit., p. 123) and in S. Togano, Mandara no kenkyū, pp. 515-516, with the exception that the two lists have Pratibhānakūṭa for Prajñākūṭa.

Very puzzling are the groups of figures whose names end in ting fo 頂佛, A4A42-46, 53-61, or ting p'u-sa 菩薩, A5A24, 53-54, or which have simply p'u-sa without ting, A5A37-40, but clearly belong to the Uṣṇīṣarājas. Concerning these see Hōbōgurun, pp. 148-150, under the word Bucchō 佛頂; Przyluski, "Les Vidyārāja," in Bulletin de l'École Française d'Extrême-Orient, XXIII (1923), pp. 301-318 (based on the Mañjuśrīmūlakalpa); S. Toganoo, Mandara no kenkyū, pp. 496-497, Hodgson, op. cit., p. 34, who gives from the Kṛyāsangraha the names of eight usnīṣas who are attached to Vairocana — Mahoṣṇīṣa, Sītāta-patroṣṇīṣa, Tejorāśi, Vijayoṣṇīṣa, Vikiraṇoṣṇīṣa, Udgatoṣṇīṣa, Maho-dgatoṣṇīṣa, and Vijayoṣṇīṣa.

It is doubtful whether the ting of A4A42-46 is to be translated as usnīṣa. The figures may belong to an entirely different ritualistic group. Ting might be kūta, śikhin, ketu, etc.; and 4A45 seems to be Rat-naśikhin since the figure corresponds exactly to B144. Tentatively I have given Tejauṣṇīṣa (cf. 4A58), Kamaloṣṇīṣa (cf. Hōbōgirin, p. 149), and Vajroṣṇīṣa. Chu-p'in 諸品 is uncertain. In 6A54 (cf. B238) I have translated it as Viśvā, and in 5B59 as Citrā.

Of the rāśis or signs of the zodiac, six are certain — 3A3, 17, 27, and 3B21, 23, 34. 3A19 is pretty certainly Kumbha. Some of the others are probably present, but I have not been able to make them out.

For Keśinī, Upakeśinī, Citrā, Vasumatī, and Ākarṣaṇī, A5B17, A5B58-61, see S. Toganoo, Mandara no kenkyū, p. 499. The names of the last four are not in their normal Chinese forms. The identifications are hypothetical.

For Gaurī, Caurī, Vetālī, Ghasmarī, Pukkasi, Śabarī, Caṇḍālī, and Dombī at A2B44; A3A41-45, 59-61; A3B15-17, 39, 59 see Sādhana-mālā, pp. 445-46, 479, and Finot, "Manuscripts sanskrits de Sādhana retrouvés en Chine," Journal Asiatique, 1934, II, 11, 29, 45. See also Tucci, Indo-Tibetica, III, 125-6, 131-2.

For Mahābala, Nīladaṇḍa, and Takkirāja, A2A11-13, as grouped with Siddhaikavira (Mañjughoṣa) and with Uṣṇīṣavijayā, see Sādhana-mālā, pp. 137, 418, 420.

For A2A5-8 and A2B49-52, Bhairavavajra with khaḍga, padma, daṇḍa, ghaṇṭā, and mudgara, see Cordier, Catalogue du fonds tibétain de la Bibliothèque Nationale, I, 165 and Hara Prasad Shāstri's quotation, op. cit., p. 145, from the Kṛṣṇayamāri Tantra.

For A2A26-29 and A2B37-40. Bhairavavajra with īrsyā, īḡa, moha, and mātsarya(?), see Hara Prasad Shāstri's quotation, op cit. p 143, from the Kṛṣṇayāmārī Tantra

Of the Mahāyaksasenāpatis (or the 12 generals of Bhaisajyaguru), A6A1-4 and A6B18-21. 33-36, the only ones of which I feel sure are Kumbhīra and Indra. The other names seem to have become much corrupted before they reached their final Japanese forms.

T. Oda. Bukkyō daigiten, p 934. gives

1 Kumbhīra	7 Indro
2 Vajra	8 Pajra
3 Mihira	9 Mahoraga
4 Andira	10 "
5 Anila	11 Cutura
6 Sandila	12 Vikarāla

Ting Fu-pao, Fo-hsueh Ta-t'ü-tsen (丁福保. 佛學大辭典), II, pp. 188-89, gives 10 as Kinnara

Petrucchi. in Stein, Serindia, p 1409, who gives a list of the Chinese names taken from the Butsuzō-zui 佛像圖彙. IV 1. See also Sylvain Lévi, "Le Catalogue géographique des Yaksa dans la Mahāmāyūri" in Journal Asiatique, 1915, I, 19 ff. Ernst Waldschmidt, Bruchstücke buddhistischer Sūtras aus dem zentralasiatischen Sanskritkanon, pp 172-175, 201-202 (in Kleine Sanskrit-Texte, Vol IV, of the Königlich Preussische Turfan-Expeditionen), and Noël Peri, "Hārīti, La Mère-de-Démons," in Bulletin de l'École Française d'Extrême-Orient, XVII, Part III, p 25, who gives Indra and Kumbhīra and the names of five others (all of which end in lo 羅). but I have found no Sanskrit text which throws light on the names

Of the planets, in addition to Sun and Moon, A5A2 is Rāhu, A3B9 is Ketu, A2B20 is Aṅgaraka, and A3A4 and 3B10 seem to be Budha and Sita. I have not been able to make out the others although I suspect that A2B18. 19 may represent planets

For the seven medical Buddhas (A1B37-43, B133-139, C13-15) and their attendants Candravairocana and Sūryavairocana, A6A21, 27 and C13a, c, see Pelliot, "Le Bhaisajyaguru," in Bulletin de l'École Française d'Extrême-Orient, III, 35-36

The names of the Buddhas of the Ten Quarters are given at B117-126. The first eight are given at A1B44, 49-55 in the same form, but the last two are different. This list does not correspond at all to lists of Buddhas of the Ten Quarters given in other texts. Cf. T. Oda, Bukkyō Daijiten, p. 948.

For the Mahāsiddhas see Grünwedel's "Die Geschichten der Vierundachtzig Zauberer" in Baessler Archiv, V. 4/5 (1916), and "Der Weg nach Sambhala" in Abhandlungen der Bayerischen Akademie, XXIX, 3. 93-4; Bhattacharyya, Sādhanamālā, Vol II, pp. xlff.; Journal Asiatique, 1934, II, 218-230. I have given the names in the Sanskrit form given by P. Cordier, Catalogue du fonds tibétain de la Bibliothèque Nationale.

A2A54-57 are four female figures (fo-mu) of vajra plus rasa, gandha, śabda, and rūpa (see also A3B5). Cf. Tucci, Indo-Tibetica, III, 156, and Guhyasamāja (Gaekwad's Oriental Series, Vol. LIII), pp. 1-3. A2A18-21 are four female figures (mu 母) of vajra plus earth, air, fire, and water. Cf. Guhyasamāja, p. 1. For the latter I am uncertain what Sanskrit words to choose. In both groups of names it would probably be better to put vajrī at the end of the compound.

Note the five Tithis (A3A5-8, 18), the twelve Pāramitās (A4A1-4, 14-17 and A4B, 33-36), the ten Bhūmis (A4A5-8, 18-20, 26-28), the ten Vāsītās (A4B6-9, 18-23), and the four Pratisamvits (A4B10-13).

I have not been able to trace the groups ending in hsi-mu 西母 or ma-hsi-mu 嘛 (A6B10-12, 23-24).

A Tibetan xylograph of 18 folios entitled Dam-can-chos-kyi-rgyal-poḥi-mñon-rtogs-bskañ-bstod-zod-las-gser-skyems-dra-ga-bskul-rnams-bzhugs-ste, which was sent to me from Peiping by Staël-Holstein in September 1935, helps to solve several difficulties. The importance of the xylograph and its bearing on certain groups of figures in the Palace Pantheon was pointed out by two of his assistants, Mr. B. I. Pankratoff and Lama Thabs-ldan-śes-rab.

After describing Chos-kyi-rgyal-po and Ça-muṇḍi, folio 3b1-6 has yab-yum-gñis-kyi-ḥkhor-du-gśin-rje-ya-ba-ti-be-con-ḥzin-pa-phyab-saṇ-ḥkhor-lo-ḥzin-pa-rmig-pa-gsal-śin-ḥzin-pa-ral-pa-ḥar-dgu-can-mduñ-ḥzin-pa-rnams-rgyal-poḥi-ḥchul-dañ-blon-poḥi-ḥchul-dañ-sde-dpon-gyi-ḥchul-dañ-pho-ñahi-ḥchul-du-gnas-pa. gzhan-yañ-gśin-rje-mig-

A, 2A1 Daṇḍadharā (yo-mu) is ya-ma-dañdi (lag-na-be-con-nag-po-thogs) or gśin-rje-dam-sri-ma-nag-mo-be-con-thogs-pa.

A, 2A2 Dañṣṭrādharā (yo-mu) is ya-ma-dañṣṭri (za-byed-mche-ba-ḥbar-ba-can) or gśin-rje-sreg-ma-nag-mo-mche-ba-ḥbar-ba-thogs-pa.

A, 2A3 Dūti(?) or Ceti(?) (yo-mu) is ya-ma-du-ti (lag-na-lcags-kyu-nag-po-thogs) or gśin-rjeḥi-pho-ña-mo-nag-mo-lcags-kyu-thogs-pa

A, 2A4 Kāladhvajā(?) or Kālaketu(?) (yo-mu) seems to correspond to dus-mḥan-ma. Perhaps Kālalakṣanā would be better. Is kā-la-ra-ti the same as dus-mḥan-ma?

A, 2A14 Chiang-lin (yo-mu) seems to correspond to gśin-rje-ḥbebs-ma.

A, 2A15 Sphoṭadharā (yo-mu) must belong to this group, but I am unable to identify her

A, 2A16 Pāśadharā (yo-mu) is kā-la-pā-śa (lag-na-dus-kyi-zhags-pa-thogs) or dus-kyi-zhags-pa-mo-nag-mo-zhags-pa-thogs.

A, 2A17 Ankuśadharā (yo-mu) is gśin-rje-pho-ña-mo-nag-mo-lcags-kyu-thogs-pa or ya-ma-du-ti (lag-na-lcags-kyu-nag-po-thogs).

A, 2B18 Mi-k'o-pa is a transliteration of Tibetan rmig-pa.

A, 2B19 Ch'a-sang is a transliteration of Tibetan phy-a-bśaṇ. Tibetan phy-a is pronounced cha.

A, 2B20 Aṅgāraka (graha) may represent gśin-rje-mig-dmar. Ac-ording to Mahāvvyutpatti 3179, mig-dmar (red-eye) is a name for Aṅgāraka (Mars). Note that one of the names of Śanaīścara (Saturn) is gśin-rje-bdag-po.

A, 2B21 Fa-chiu-ku (yo-chu) seems to correspond to Tibetan ral-paṅchar-dgu-can

A, 2B33 Ya-wa-ti corresponds to Tibetan ya-ba-ti.

A, 2B34 Dharmarāja is chos-kyi-rgyal-po
